TAPE SCRIPT

- James: I really like your jacket! I have never seen a jacket like that before!
Where did you get it?
- Sue: My mum bought it for me in London. She was there on business and came back yesterday. She said she found it at Camden market, which is a huge market in a place called “Little Venice” in London.
- James: Wow! I wish my mum would buy me clothes like that. All I get are old clothes from my older cousins. I am really sick of it. Two weeks ago she came back with another bagful and there were trousers and T-shirts, and one pair of trousers was purple!!! Purple trousers!!! My mum wanted me to wear them, but I said, “No way!”
- Sue: Purple trousers! That is really bad. I feel sorry for you. But on the other hand, your outfit today doesn’t look too bad. I really like your baggy blue jeans and long-sleeved red T-shirt. It’s great that you are wearing a black short-sleeved shirt on top of it. And the skull on the sleeves looks really cool.
- James: Yeah, this is my favourite outfit. I have got an aunt who lives in Vienna and luckily she often sends me really cool outfits for my birthday, Christmas or Easter. She is my absolute favourite aunt, because she is so unusual herself. She wears the craziest hats you can imagine! Last time I saw her she was wearing a huge pink straw hat with plastic cherries on it. She definitely gets noticed in the street.
- Sue: That sounds crazy to me. My mum just wears trousers, skirts and blouses – really boring clothes. But my dad never leaves the house without his brown Australian hat and leather jacket. I really like his clothes.
- James: My dad has to wear suits, shirts and ties, because he works in an office, but my mum often wears long coats with boots, which looks good. Anyway, wouldn’t it be so cool to go to London one day and just go shopping at Camden market ...
